Housing Box for Contemporary and Future

Home is a small world for singles; It is a harbor for family happiness. For the unemployed, home is a shelter and a haven in a cruel society. For social workers, home is a place to rest after busy and tense work. They can cultivate their interests, such as painting, video games, and pets. Nowadays, the idea of forming a big family is gradually weakening, and the demand for single person residence and double person residence is gradually increasing. Therefore, economical, and practical tiny houses have increasingly become the goal of people's house purchase. As a small volume residence, it needs complete functional areas and low cost to meet people's living needs. It can be a recreational vehicle, a container transformed movable house, or even a narrow space inside a water transmission pipe. Today, with convenient transportation, people's workplace is no longer fixed, so their homes can move freely with people. This can be achieved by folding frames, roofs and walls made of lightweight materials.
